Tribute to Madar-e-Millat Mohtarma Fatima Jinnah
On Her 58th Death Anniversary

Today, as we commemorate the 58th death anniversary of Madar-e-Millat, Mohtarma Fatima Jinnah, we remember not just the sister of the Quaid, but a towering figure in her own right a beacon of strength, education, sacrifice, and unwavering patriotism.

Fatima Jinnah was not only a highly educated and refined woman, but also among the first Muslim women dentists in British India. Yet, she chose to dedicate her life selflessly to a far greater cause: the freedom and future of her people. Standing shoulder to shoulder with her brother, Quaid-e-Azam Muhammad Ali Jinnah, she played a pivotal role in the Pakistan Movement and later emerged as the voice of conscience in the early years of our nation.

She earned the title Madar-e-Millat, Mother of the Nation, not merely due to her familial ties, but because of her tireless devotion to the ideals of justice, equality, and national unity. Her life story is a lesson in dignity, courage, and purpose-driven leadership.

To our school leaders, teachers, students, and parents:

Let Fatima Jinnah's legacy remind us that true greatness lies not in titles or positions, but in service, character, and a deep commitment to the collective good. Let our girls and boys learn from her that education must be paired with ethics, and that silent strength often changes the course of history.

May we nurture in our institutions a generation of Fatima Jinnahs, courageous, principled, and compassionate.

Nations are built by the character of their people. Let us raise citizens who carry forward her torch.

In remembrance, in gratitude, and in resolve.
We salute Madar-e-Millat.
